PREFACE

It is universally recognised that Libraries are indispensable aids not only to all kinds of educational institutions like schools and universities, but to all kinds of intellectual, social and economic activity. From the number of Libraries and the number of books in the country, it is possible to measure to a very large extent the progress of that country. Indeed, the real test of a Library would be the use made of it by the persons for whom it is meant. The Library movement is now gradually recognised to be an effective means of national uplift.

Further, it is generally realised that Library provision is an economic necessity in the sense that in its absence, the money spent on elementary education will be largely wasted by widespread lapse into illiteracy.

The need of suitable Libraries is all the more urgent in a poor country like India where reading material is not available and where relapse into illiteracy inevitably follows.

It may be interesting to know that Italy possesses 57 libraries each containing more than a lakh of books with a total of 12,634,000 books in these libraries alone. United Provinces which has the same area and an almost equal population, possesses not a single Library having even a lakh of books.

The Department of Public Instruction in these Provinces is fully alive to the need of libraries in schools. In 1926-27, 43 districts were given grants of Rs. 500 per Library for the opening of 96 libraries. In 1927-28, 76 more libraries were opened at the same rate. Five travelling and circulating libraries were also liberally financed.

Proposals to open additional libraries have had to be abandoned for want of funds.

"Stop the relapse to illiteracy" is a reasonable demand. But just think what it means to provide even a small library in every Vernacular Middle School in the Province. To open these, according to the Director of Public Instruction, a sum of 2½ lakhs would be required and the recurring upkeep would be about a quarter of a lakh per annum. It may not be out of place to ask whether an elementary education budget for nearly a crore of rupees should not be safeguarded by a public library budget of at least 2½ lakhs.

All civilised countries recognise the importance of libraries, large and small, and finance them either from general revenues or from the levying of a special Library rate.

In the United Provinces literacy is low, and the number of libraries correspondingly small. At present, Government and public bodies are unable to finance the creation of new libraries or to supplement the resources of the existing ones.

Public opinion regarding the imposition of a library rate is gradually crystallising and Library Associations are being established in various Provinces of India with the object of spreading the Library movement and enlisting the public support.

Perhaps the most urgent need is how to make the best use of the existing libraries. Should we not have an inspection by a responsible person of these libraries and give these the benefit of helpful advice? Should we not provide an agency which could give advice regarding library buildings, book selection, cataloguing and a score of other problems concerning library administration.

We all know that in these Provinces, libraries exist but nowhere can one find any information about them. It was felt that information regarding these libraries with particulars about their situation, history, resources, contents, income, expenditure, management, system of classification, circulation etc. will be highly useful not only to a Librarian but to the administrator, social reformer, teacher, reader, publisher and author.

The statistics collected together in these pages will help in solving problems relating to the establishment of new libraries, allocation of grants, specialisation of functions, inter-borrowing of books, institution of classes in Library Training etc., etc.

The compilation of such information has been a difficult and laborious task, but it is gratifying to find that a Directory of the libraries of these Provinces is now available and the information contained therein is as complete and reliable as it was possible to make it.

I am indebted to District Magistrates, Librarians and Educational Officers for the assistance they gave me so whole heartedly in collecting the data of the various libraries in these Provinces.

My thanks are due to Mr. Fazl Elahi, B. A. (Hons.), Assistant Librarian, University Library, Lucknow, for the help given in the compilation of this Directory.
